baier/box's biography

written by dominick baier

the project "baier/box" consists of dominick baier and bao-nghi droste. in 2001, the two longterm friends joined efforts to realize a shared vision of modern "4-to-the-floor" dance music. the defining characteristic of their sound stems from a completely digital production technique - programs like reaktor, absynth and live contribute to a clean, crisp and very detailed aesthetic. besides their collaborative output, both artists are accomplished solo producers. bao-nghi droste, a design student based in heidelberg and darmstadt, has released as boxtype on shitkatapult (among others) and as microbox on andy vaz's background records. dominick baier can look back on a string of releases as dolby absurd on tv-whatever, a label he co-founded in 1997. baier was also one of the creative minds behind the weekly _lounge clubnight in mannheim.
